

CODE OF CONDUCT AND CONFLICTS OF INTEREST POLICY

Effective for all employees, officers, and directors. Reaffirmed annually as part of the Company's compliance training cycle.

1. GENERAL STANDARD. Employees must act in the Company's best interest and avoid situations where personal interests conflict, or appear to conflict, with their duty to the Company.
2. VENDOR RELATIONSHIPS. No employee may participate in selecting, negotiating with, or approving payments to a vendor in which the employee or an immediate family member holds a financial interest, without prior written disclosure to and approval from the Compliance Office. Undisclosed relationships discovered after the fact will be escalated to Internal Audit and the Audit Committee.
3. GIFTS AND ENTERTAINMENT. Employees involved in vendor selection or accounts payable may not accept gifts, entertainment, or hospitality from a current or prospective vendor with a value exceeding $150 in a calendar year without disclosure.
4. REPORTING. Suspected violations may be reported to a manager, the Compliance Office, or the confidential ethics hotline. Retaliation against a good-faith reporter is prohibited and is itself grounds for disciplinary action.
5. ANNUAL CERTIFICATION. All employees certify annually that they have read, understood, and complied with this policy, and disclose any new conflicts arising during the year rather than waiting for the next certification cycle.
